December 15, 2003; Cleveland, Ohio – S&A Consulting Group LLP was recognized as a winner of the COSE Business Plan Challenge 2003, the Council of Smaller Enterprises' second regional business plan writing competition. The winners were announced at the organization's Annual Meeting Luncheon held December 9.

S&A Consulting Group was the winner of the Minority Business Enterprise category. Each category winner received a $15,000 payoff, plus a range of valuable business support services.

Nipendra (Nip) and Rita N. Singh are Founders and Partners of S&A Consulting Group LLP. Rita Singh said, "It was an extremely valuable exercise to take a step back and evaluate our company – where we are now and where we are going. COSE's Business Plan Challenge gave us the incentive to complete the plan, which was another part of our efforts to continually improve our business and expand our relationships."

The winners were selected through a rigorous, two-part review process. The first stage was conducted by a panel of small business experts. This group examined the plans in detail to ensure that the components of a good business plan were present. Then, a second panel, consisting of experts in the five core categories (Start Up, Innovation/Growth, Arts, Manufacturing and Technology), made the final determination on the basis of each plan's creativity and quality. Fifty judges spent a minimum of five to 10 hours each reading business plans.
